THIRTEENTH YEAR.

EARLINGTON, HOPKINS COUNTY, KENTUCKY, THURSDAY, MAY 8, 1902

NO. 19

FACTS & FICTION

BLISS G. BARD.

The average girl of the present day in all states except Kentnel is few of ideas and full of nonsense. She appears on the street clad in fine and costly raiment and hunteth up a beau at whose expense she eateth candy and drinketh soda water and lemon fizz until the going down of the sun. She also cheweth gum without intermission except at meal time. She getteth the idea in her head that she can sing and pawth ivory and warbleth until her father gets a nervous shock and the neighbors get out an injunction. She attendeth a party arrayed in a dress that is too long at the bottom and too short at the top. She catcheth a cold in her head and attributeth it to sitting in a draft at church. She goeth to the postoffice 14 times a day and thinketh the switch engine carrieth mail. In the evening she sitteth in a hammock and jollies her best fellow and giggletth until the night waxeth old. She lieth in bed the next morning with a headache until the eleventh hour, while her poor old mother humpheth herself and getteth the breakfast and cleaneth up the house. She sigheth for a husband with a long pocketbook and a long mustache, but finally getteth married to a man who parreth his hair in the middle, smoketh cigarettes and holdeth up two fingers to the barber when he getteth a shave.

Ever think what success in life means? It means this, that he works all day and part of the night all his life that he may be able to send his wife abroad and his children to "Yale" or "Yassar," then when he dies he must leave half a million for his loved ones in order that they may continue a life of indolence, ease and fashion. Ever hear of a man's loved ones being criticized for failure to do their duty toward him? No, but from the time a boy is eight years old until the time when he totters into the grave with old age he has been constantly reminded by every book, magazine or newspaper he picks up of the duty he owes, but did you ever hear of anyone owing a duty to him?

Limbarger chess laid away in cupboards and refrigerators will drive away ants, says a well posted newspaper man. No doubt of it; it will drive dogs out of a tan yard; it will drive a spike through a brick wall; it will drive a mule through a barbed wire fence; it will drive a herd of cattle over a precipice; it will drive a tramp away from a meal of victuals; it will drive a negro away from a chicken roost, or a man into insanity who stays five minutes within ten feet of its savory presence; yes, sir, it will drive away ants and other uncles and if I had any cousins that I would not drive away, I would be tempted to disown them, and yet some men would sit down and eat the stuff and profess to like it.

No homely girl ever got married. This may be stated as a fact, judging from the newspaper comments on the weddings. And it is probably true, as brides are always beautiful to the man whom they wed, and that is all that is important.

There is a great difference between taking an interest in labor and taking an interest from labor.

MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT

At Temple Theatre Was a Success. Audience Delighted and Applauded Vigorously.

The musical entertainment given at Temple Theatre Tuesday night by Prof. Cox and composed of Earlinton talent was a decided success and every one present speaks in highest terms of the musical. The program from the opening chorale to the closing song sparkled with musical gems, comic and sentimental.

Some of the most prominent features of the evening were "Maybe, Jolly Little Waiters," "Children's Chorus, Pleading at the Bar," "Ain't dat a Shame," "Little Turkey Turks," "No Papa now," "Believe" and the parody on "Poe's Raven." There was not a hitch or a mistake in the performance from start to finish and we are proud of the musical talent of Earlinton. The Madisonville Orchestra and Mr. Godding added greatly to the pleasure of the evening.

The Druth Broken at Guthrie.

Mr. Hop Salmon, in speaking of the cloud burst at Guthrie last week, says "he passed one house where the water was over the lower floor some eight or ten inches and saw a woman on the porch standing on an inverted soap box with a baby in one arm and a pig in the other, the chickens had taken refuge on the house top and the dog was standing on his hind legs with his fore feet against the house. He asked the lady if she needed any assistance. She replied, "No, she thought the water would go down in an hour or so."

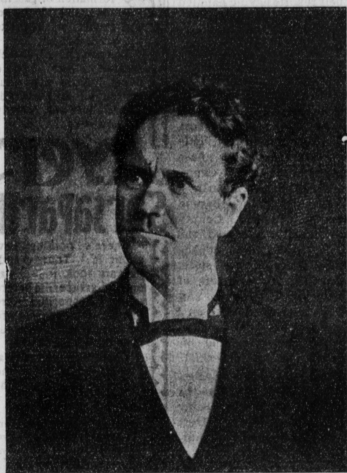

The Story of the President's Mother.

When Martha Bulloch, the fair daughter of a wealthy Georgia planter, married Theodore Roosevelt half a century ago she little dreamed that her name would be handed down as the mother of a President. The pretty romance of her meeting with the New York man, their courtship and marriage, and the long honeymoon journey in a stagecoach, forms a new and interesting chapter in connection with the life of the present Theodore Roosevelt. In the June number of the Ladies' Home Journal this romance and many unknown facts concerning the President's mother are told by a cousin of Martha Bulloch.

The cases of small pox that broke out in the families living on Wm. Bradley's place near Barsley have all been dismissed as cured. Work of a Noble Woman.

Walter Williams, of Columbia, Mo., writes in a letter recently received at World's Fair headquarters about the art school established in Greece by Lady Egerton, wife of Lord Edwin Egerton, the British minister at Athens. Lady Egerton started these schools to relieve the popular distress in Greece caused by that country's last war with Turkey, by teaching women lace-making and other industrial arts. She has established and conducted these schools at her own expense, selling the products for the workers, and exhibiting them at expositions in other countries, where she has obtained many medals for them and is now willing to install her industrial exhibits in the Louisiana Purchase Exposition at her own expense, provided they are classified and displayed in the department for educational exhibits.

Should Have Placed it With The Bee.

A brilliant entertainer was relating some of his experiences. "I was ordering my advertisement in a western country daily newspaper office one day," said the narrator, "when a lanky countryman walked in and said he wanted an 'In Memoriam' notice in the obituary column of the paper."

"My ole guv'nor died a year ago," he explained, "and I should like some poetry in the paper about him."

"All right," answered the clerk; "have you brought it with you?"

"No," said the rustic; "can't you fix me up a bit?"

"Certainly," replied the clerk. "Our charge for 'In Memoriam' notices is $2 an inch."

"A look of intense amazement passed over the countryman's face."

"Good gracious!" he cried, as he made for the door; "I can't afford that. My guv'nor was 6 feet high."

Attempted to Rob Saloonkeeper.

At 9 o'clock Monday night three men entered Milner's saloon at Henderson. Two of them called for beer. When the bartender turned to draw it the men drew revolvers and when he again faced them was looking down the barrels of two ugly looking weapons. The men commanded him to throw up his hands, but instead of doing so, he ran to the front of the house and jumped through the plate glass window. One of the men fired at him as he ran.

Two hours afterwards three men giving their names as G. Thompson, W. Martin and J. Williams were arrested and identified by Milner. Three fine revolvers were found on them.

Old Fiddler's Will Play.

Forty or more old time fiddlers will meet at Temple theatre tonight and push the bow across the strings. Music is one thing one cannot get enough of and a large audience will no doubt turn out to hear the contestants. Old tunes forgotten years ago will be resurrected tonight and played once more. And the old familiar tunes of "Leather Breeches," "Downfall of Paris," "Barking Squirrel" and others will be wafted on the ambient air and absorbed by the audience. Come out and hear the bow scrapers. It will do them good and make you feel better for a week.

MINING NOTES.

The question with the Central City local of U. M. W.'s, now is, what has become of $1,300 that is missing. Tres. Campbell is reported as losing some leaves out of his books, but says the leaves were lost while he was absent. Campbell reports having handled $165,000 for the 15 months ending Dec. 1st. Since then five months have passed and at the same rate he should have received $60,000 more, or a total of $225,000 in 19 months. For the leading local of the district, with its 200 members, to make a fuss over the loss of a paltry little $1,300 is very mean. To abuse a Treasurer as thrifty as Campbell, who has spent nearly a quarter of one million dollars in "organizing" Hopkins County and has largely increased the output of "scab" coal at the same time, is concentrated spite. Why don't the 200 members of that local chip in $6 each and pay up the loss?—and make up a purse and buy another house and for the Treasurer, that his rent roll may be still better.

The sending of John Eggle, colored, alias "Chicken," to the penitentiary for life for being one of the men who went from the Madisonville camp and murdered Morton Bush, a non-union miner at Providence, Nov. 17 last, will illustrate the brotherly feeling the white U. M. W.'s, have for the colored members. The officials of the order didn't send their high priced attorney's to defend Eggle. In fact they tried to disown this colored man who had carried U. M. W., guns and, obedient to the orders of his superiors, went forth to do murder. This is in keeping with the brotherhood in Union county and other places, where colored men are not allowed to work in the mines. The best attorneys were on hand at this same Dixon court, to defend Wood and Barnaby, who are also charged with the murder of Morton Bush, whose only crime was that he preferred to work in a non-union mine rather than starve in idleness at the command of the U. M. W., officials. Eggle's punishment was deserved. He is a murderer, but he is not as guilty as one of the men who sent him forth to do this murder. Time will tell if all the guilty will be punished, but the coils of the law are tightening and the men who have defied the law and claimed to be above all laws—who have asserted they could not be convicted of any crime, because they would clear themselves by perjury, may yet be punished.

At last the National Board of U. M. W., have discovered that Hopkins county is an expensive luxury. Salaries of Board members and organizers of district No. 23 have been cut off or reduced and the poor, hungry members who live in Hopkins, Christian and Union counties are told they must organize these counties themselves, and that quickly, or their supplies will be cut off. And the orders are given for home men to gather them selves together, three in each gang, one of whom is given authority to stamp "U. M. W." on every "scab" they can catch alone, give him a card and send him off to foreign parts. The authors of this brilliant scheme tell the various gangs that by three men jumping on one man, they can swear themselves clear of the United States court if they are called before it. One of these gangs, composed of four well known U. M. W.'s of Earlington, called Henry Cooksey and others out the other night, telling them if anybody asked about the interview to say, "We were trading cows." It is somewhat doubtful if the United States court will recognize cow trades in the night, with no cows about, as strictly legal.

The proposition to men working here six days every week to quit and go to Indiana or elsewhere and work possibly one day in the week, is likely to be popular. The mines of Hopkins, Christian and Webster counties have full work ahead for the entire year. The union mines of Muhlenberg, Ohio and Union are not running over two days per week.

FIGHTING IN MINDANAO.

The Dattos Failed to Send Answer to the Ultimatum of Brig.-Gen. Davis.

THE AMERICAN OUTPOSTS FIRED UPON.

The Troops Advanced and Invested the Moro Fort, and When the Message was Sent From the Field Heavy Firing Was in Progress.

Manila, May 4.—Gen. Davis, in command of the American forces in the island of Mindanao, cables that his ultimatum has not been answered; that his messenger has not returned, and that the American outpost were fired on Saturday morning. The troops advanced and invested the Moro fort, but did not capture it until the infantry reached the ditch. This fort was strong and well defended by 200 men.

Port Pando was then surrounded and heavily shelled. Heavy firing continued as the dispatch was sent.

Gen. Davis also reports that Lieut. Henry S. Wagner, of the Fourteenth Infantry, has been seriously wounded, that two other officers were slightly wounded, and that 20 enlisted men were wounded.

This is the substance of a brief cable message from the field.

THE FORT CAPTURED.

Kilby-Four Moro Surrender After Their Leaders Were Killed.

Manila, May 5.—Gen. Davis, the commander of the American forces in the island of Mindanao, cables that the 84 Moros who survived the attack and capture of the Moro fort by the American soldiers in Mindanao Saturday, have surrendered, and that the sultan of Bayan, Rajah Muda, Sultan Pando Pato, and a number of the leading dattos were killed in the engagement.

The assault on the principal fort, reports Gen. Davis, was one of the most gallant performances of American arms in the Philippines, and the regiment of Lieut.-Col. Frank D. Baldwin, the Fourth Infantry, deserves the greatest credit for its conduct. The men of the Fourth Infantry had a hand-to-hand struggle with the Moros in the four lines of ditches, and at the walls of the fort. When the position was captured these ditches were found to be lined with Moro dead. Gen. Davis characterizes the rifle fire of the Americans as excellent, and says he has never witnessed a performance excelling the capture of the Moro fort in gallantry and grit.

Gen. Davis says, also, it is his painful duty to announce that the overthrow of Moro power was not accomplished without severe loss to the Americans. One officer and seven enlisted men were killed, while four officers and 39 enlisted men were wounded.

After the 84 Moros who survived the assault had made good their escape, eight others who were concealed there made an unsuccessful break for liberty. Some of the Moro wounded tried to stab the American soldiers who were succoring them. It is impossible to give the total of Moro dead, as a number of them are lying in the tall grass. The fort was defended by 200 men. Its capture saved a siege, and it would have been impossible to carry the position without sealing leaders.

Gen. Davis further reports his intention of retaining the fort until the five adjacent Moro forts are occupied. Then, with the consent of Gen. Chaffee, he will retain ten of his principal captives as hostages and release the others.

The American forces who attacked the fort numbered 470 men and four mountain guns.

It rained hard during the night preceding the attack, and the men were without blankets. The battery fired 120 rounds at a range of 1,400 yards.

Gen. Davis adds that he is sending the dead to Malaban for burial. He intends to invite the sultan of Tarlac to an interview. His fort is of the same strength as Bayan, the one captured yesterday. Gen. Davis is urging the people to return to the cultivation of rice.

A Board Investigating the Charges Made By Maj. Gardner.

Washington, May 4.—A cablegram from Gen. Chaffee relating to Maj. Gardner stated that a board consisting of Colonels Wint and Duncan and Capt. Johnson were investigating the charges made by Maj. Gardner, but up to the present time the board had furnished the names of only one man, although saying he had several witnesses. Mr. Spooner, commenting on this cable, said that it was improper to insist that Maj. Gardner should be brought here while the investigation was pending.

School Notes.

The teachers and children of the public school spent the afternoon at the park Friday. The closing promises to be interesting. For the book contest on the evening of the 14th at Old Masonic Hall. Books can be had at 5c. Don't fail to contribute a book to the Public School Library. The books are to belong to all the public school children from time to time. Such books as "Pilgrim's Progress" and "Gems of Poetry" will be in the collection, but nothing trashy will be allowed. You vote by buying a book and presenting it to one of the speakers for the Public School Library. The evening of the 15th will be very interesting indeed. Beside the excellent selections 12 girls will perform a patriotic act in costumes. But the 16th will be the best of all. Seventy-five children will spend the day at Lake Side Park in a very pleasing way. Don't fail to hear them.

Every selection is clear, clearcut English of highest standard. Nothing but what our Lord sanctions is used. Some people are so Pharasically religious—not Christlike, that they cannot commit the "great sin" of hearing innocent children recite a pure, clean poem, but they can backbite, they can boldly do what God plainly commanded them not to do. Such persons need three blessings the third like unto this, common sense.

Come to each exercise. The programs are short, all short except one. It only takes one day to render that. Come on time. Miss Hawkins will touch the piano at 10 minutes after 7 o'clock. Public examination is changed from 14th to 18th. Come and examine the work of the school on Tuesday, the 13th of May.

Calendar.

May 13, 9 a. m. Public Examination.

May 14, 8 p. m. Book Contest and William Tell.

May 15, Closing Exercises of Advanced Grades.

May 16, Closing Exercises of Primary Grades.

Fifteen cents buys a ticket for the three exercises provided it is paid on the 14th; if not, 15 cents each.

Jury Shes.

Sam Jones says a pipe or a cigar is "fire at one end and a fool at the other."

The reason so many boys fall into bad company and stray away from home is because their home surroundings are not made pleasant. They do not receive equal treatment with their sisters. Boys require as much care and protection as girls. The difference parents make as to the training and treating their own boys and girls is enough to make demons of them.

If we are sanctified by "growth" we should have to grow to it in one day in order to be safe, for only one day is ours.

Oh if "they" could bring on common sense and sell it already for use, for indeed that is a scarce article in this country. Now your scribe may have left something out that should have been put in and put something in that should have been left out, but I cannot think to write down every time some one takes offense, then, too, I have not yet a deep enough case of common or uncommon sense to see the benefit to be derived from knowing that dinner or supper was taken. Some times your scribe may get a name "cris-cris-cris," for you see I am not an angel, and wonder if they could ever make an angel of me. Then, too, the publishers' space and type run sometimes and they get things in a jumble too, for they too are mortals yet, groaning under heavy responsibilities. So now we are going to do the best we can for your names, churches and all that is yours. Sometimes we fail to say Mister or Miss, not because we do not respect you, but possibly all the capital M's of the type run out, but you will excuse them when you remember how in some sections they write you up and when they pass around good paying jobs like those you have "they miss" you again, so they miss you twice. See?

Two little girls instructed by Mrs. Carry Alexander will render piano solo and duet on the 14th and 15th.

Don't fail to hear them. Hear Misses Stockdale and Howell on the 14th and 15th. Don't fail to be at the Park the 16th or you will miss a treat. On the evening of the 14th Miss Brown, our Superintendent, will be present and deliver an address. Miss L. B. Evans, of Atkinson College, will open the program with a brilliant solo. Prof. Duncan and faculty promise to be present. The top crust of our exercises will be good, the crumbs "gooder" and the bottom "goodest." But don't be late.

SINGULAR COINCIDENCES.

It Developed Through the Death of Representative J. D. Salmon, of New Jersey.

THREE DESKS DRAPED IN MOURNING.

Mr. Otley Had Been Designated to Attend the Funeral of Mr. Cummings, and Mr. Salmon Had Been Named to Perform Like Service at Mr. Otley's Funeral.

Washington, May 7.—The house, Tuesday, adjourned immediately after the reading of the journal, out of respect to the memory of Representative J. D. Salmon, of New Jersey.

This is the third consecutive legislative day on which the house has paid a similar tribute of respect to one of its deceased members. Never before in its history, have three desks been draped at the same time. It was a coincidence remarked on by members in connection with the deaths of Messrs. Cummings, Otley and Salmon that Mr. Cummings was appointed on the committee to attend the Rosecrans obsequies at Arlington; that Mr. Otley was appointed on the committee to attend the funeral of Mr. Cummings, and that Mr. Salmon was designated to attend the funeral of Mr. Otley.

The chaplain, in his invocation on the assembling of the house, referred feelingly to Mr. Salmon's death and Mr. Parker (N. J.) then announced the death of his colleague. In doing so he paid a high tribute to the character of Mr. Salmon. He offered the usual resolutions of sorrow and regret, and they were unanimously adopted.

The speaker appointed the following committees to attend the funeral: Messrs. Gardner, Loudenslager, Howell, Fowler, Stewart, Parker and McDermott, of New Jersey; Grav (Ill.), Ball (Tex.), Lloyd (Mo.), Nevin (O.) and Claud Kitchen (N. C.).

As a further mark of respect, the house then, at 12:10, adjourned.

THURSDAY, MAY 8, 1902.

The happiest man in the world is the every-day go-as-you-please fellow without any frills. The man who works and pays his bills, and has the respect and confidence of his fellow men. The man who lays aside a little money as he pursues the even pathway to the goal and looks with due regard to the welfare of his soul. The man who always has sufficient food and clothing for himself and family, all the necessities and some of the luxuries of life, but does not try to get a corner on the output of the earth and own all the transportation and navigation companies contained therein. A man who is free in the fullest sense of the word and is a slave neither to ambition nor society. He never expects to wear out the following part of his pants in the senate chamber or on a seat in the stock exchange, and when he slides into his clothes in the morning does not waste an hour or two trying to select the proper tint of socks, suspenders and necktie that will blend with the general effect. He earns his meat and bread either by the perspiration of his manly brow or by the grey matter of his brain; he eats three meals per diem and enjoys what he eats and is not compelled to sit up half the night darning himself with patent medicines to cure dyspepsia or putting poultices on his conscience. He corrects his children if they need it regardless of the fashion. He splits his own kindling, milks his own cow and is not afraid to look the tax gatherer in the face. This kind of a man is happy because he does not spend the best years of his life looking for something that is about four sizes too large for his callibre and consequently is not embittered by contemplating a past that is full of shattered hopes and blighted ambition.

Only Indian Paper Dying.

The Cherokee Advocate, the only newspaper printed for Indians in the Indian language, is soon to be abolished. It has been published at Tahlequah, I. T., for the past fifty years and prior to that time at New Echota, Ga., where it was established in 1830. Lack of funds in the Cherokee treasury was responsible for the discontinuance of this publication, which a few years ago was a powerful medium among the full blood Cherokees. The paper is printed at the expense of the Cherokee government, has its own modern plant, office building, etc. The type was cast in special molds, and the molds were destroyed. Today its circulation is less than 300, and all of those are deadheads. The editor and compositor are paid by the Cherokee government, but since that is doomed the end is in sight.

TIRED OF HIS CROWN

WHY KING LEOPOLD OF BELGIUM MAY ABDICATE.

Care of State Too Burdensome For the Meretricious Monarch in Europe. His Keen Sense of Humor and Kind Heart—The Help Presumptive.

King Leopold of Belgium, possessor of monarchies, whose many escapades have been a scandal in Europe for years, is at last in serious trouble. His present difficulties are due to his subjects, who so far forgot "the divinity that doth hedge about a king" as to choose his royal highness through the streets of Brussels, threatening bodily harm. On top of the mobbing comes the report that Leopold is to abdicate his throne in favor of his nephew, Prince Albert.

An alarming feature of the situation in Belgium is the suspicion that prevails as to the loyalty of the army to the king. The rank and file of the army are believed to be in sympathy with the present Socialistic-Republican movement. These things, it is alleged, have made King Leopold weary of his job.

King Leopold is an up-to-date monarch. He has always been a hard worker, and, though he is no longer young and has a white beard of patriarchal length, his alertness is that of a man in the prime of life. He gets up at 5 o'clock in the morning, winter and summer, and by 7 o'clock he has read, digested and annotated all his vast correspondence. Sometimes he reads his letters in his study, but if the weather be fine he gets out into the beautiful park of his palace at Laeken and reads them as he walks up and down. Exercise, hard work, sobriety in eating and drinking—these are his sources of health and vitality.

For Brussels is his favorite good position live more simply than the king of Belgium. At 8 o'clock he has a few grapes, a peach and a cup of chocolate. At noon he takes what is called on the continent his second breakfast. It consists of scrambled eggs, steak and a Hamburgillet, a favorite and special dish of his, and some spinach. Dinner is at the early and unfashionable hour of 6, and it consists of soup, a small roast, a bit of roast beef, game when in season, asparagus and a little fruit. He drinks just three glasses of wine, never more, and it is always a still wine. Champagne he does not touch.

King Leopold is an ardent devotee of the automobile. In thirteen minutes exactly every morning when he is at Laeken he traverses the distance between there and his palace in Brussels. There is a story of his chauffeur being recently threatened with arrest by a zealous police officer not because of the danger to foot passengers, the courtly officer hastened to explain, but because the speed threatened to cause an accident to the king himself.

At the age of sixty-eight King Leopold II. is one of the gayest young fellows in Europe. He married at the age of eighteen Archduchess Marie Henriette of Austria, and her troubles with her royal husband began on the honeymoon. His friendship with one of his wife's retinue was apparent to all, and Leopold took no pains to conceal his infatuation. Ever since then his ministers and family have been bothered constantly to keep the old man out of mischief. They do not succeed well. There is no telling when he is going to break out next.

When the lines have been drawn too tight on him in Brussels, Leopold throws off the cares of state and hides himself across the border to Paris. There he has his fling before listening to the dignified confessions of states who pass after him.

As to the reports of abdication, it is difficult to get at their source. It is known in his own country that King Leopold is getting tired of politics, and the event is not at all improbable.

Prince Albert, King Leopold's nephew, is twenty-seven years old. A year and a half ago he married Duchess Elizabeth of Bavaria, who is one year his junior. There was a real love match.

There are those who think Prince Albert is yet unprepared to rule, and that the king will wait until his pupil has acquired more knowledge in the art of being a constitutional monarch. However this may be, the king's humor at present points to an early abdication.

CHOSE NEWSPAPER MAN.

Leslie M. Shaw Selects Writer For Private Secretary.

From printer's "devil" to private secretary to the head of the United States treasury is a long step in advance for a young man to make in these bustling days of competition, yet that is the record of Robert R. Armstrong, just appointed private secretary to Leslie M. Shaw, secretary of the treasury.

Less than ten years ago Mr. Armstrong was working in a Des Moines newspaper office in the capacity of boy of all work. That he has succeeded in reaching the honorable position is now holders is proof of his pluck, energy and natural ability.

Mr. Armstrong had reached his junior year at Iowa State college when his health gave out, and he was forced to abandon further classroom work

ROBERT R. ARMSTRONG.

Desiring to learn the newspaper business, he began at the bottom as the general factotum of the composing room. Several years later he graduated into a reporter, and from then on his advance was rapid.

Mr. Armstrong's work as city editor on a Des Moines paper attracted attention in Chicago. Six years ago he went to that city and for a time was an editorial writer on the Chicago Record. Thence he was sent to New York to take charge of The Record's news bureau. He continued in that position until the consolidation of The Record with The Times-Herald, when he became Chicago correspondent of the New York Herald. This post he retained until he resigned to become Mr. Shaw's private secretary.

Mr. Armstrong is one of the youngest men in point of years who have ever held so important a secretaryship, but he has a large experience to draw upon. His acquaintance with public men is extensive, his newspaper duties in New York and Chicago bringing him into frequent contact with leading politicians and professional men.

Mrs. Joseph H. Choate, wife of the United States ambassador to the court of St. James, is one of the most popular ladies of the diplomatic corps at the English capital.

Mrs. Choate is a liberal and charming entertainer, and her grace and tact have made the United States embassy a most important social center. In her salon gather the beauty and wit of the American colony in London, and invitations to her receptions, which are always crowded, are sought for by members of the British nobility. The latest photograph of Mrs. Choate shows her as she is, a beautiful type of the Amer-

She was born in Salisbury, Conn., and spent most of her girlhood days in Cleveland. In 1860 she was married to Mr. Choate and removed to New York. Mrs. Choate is a blond, her hair now slightly tinged with gray. Her features are aristocratic, her cheeks rosy with health and her eyes dark and brilliant.

Mrs. Choate is the possessor of a dignified and at the same time a winning personality. She is thus generously provided with all the attributes most needed by a diplomat's wife.

The Choate family is a charming one. There are two sons and a daughter.

Children's Fertilizer.

That's a good name for Scott's Emulsion. Children are like young plants. Some will grow in ordinary soil. Others need fertilizers.

The nature of some children prevents them from thriving on ordinary food. Such children grow right if treated right.

All they need is a little fertilizer—a little extra richness. Scott's Emulsion is the right treatment.

Fertilizers make things grow. That's just what Scott's Emulsion does. It makes children grow in flesh, grow in strength, grow rich blood, grow in mind, grow happy. That's what we make it for.

IN THE INTEREST OF THE

..Woman's Christian Temperance Union..

Edited by a White Ribboner.

Several weeks ago U. S. Senator Hansbrough, (N. D.) introduced a bill to prohibit the sale of alcoholic liquors in all government buildings. On April 24, the reform forces at the capital were given a hearing on the measure. Addresses were made by Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts and Rev. O. R. Miller, representing the International Reform Bureau; Mrs. Margaret Dye Ellis, national superintendent of legislation of the W. C. T. U.; Ella M. Thacher, national W. C. T. U., superintendent of soldiers and sailors, and S. E. Nicholson, secretary of the American Anti-Saloon League. A written statement was also presented by Hon. Joshua L. Bailey, president of the National Temperance Society.

The hearing was held before the committee on immigration to which the measure had been referred.

Dr. Crafts said in his address that in order to get at the facts in the case he made a special trip to Ellis Island on Monday, April 21. On the official ferryboat from New York nothing was carried for cargo except 130 dozen bottles of beer. In two outside restaurants used by visitors, one might have milk or tea or coffee instead of beer, but at the only lunch counters accessible to the immigrants, there was nothing but an abundance of beer. When in some city the list of men who rent buildings to liquor dealers is published, it is not regarded as a roll of honor. Surely then the public buildings whose ownership all Christian citizens share, should not be rented for a business which most of them despise.

Senator Penrose who is chairman of the immigration committee, took great interest in the matter and expressed himself as heartily in favor of the provisions of the bill, but made some suggestions as to procedure.

As the result of the hearing it was decided to separate the bill into two proposals. April 24, Senator Penrose introduced a bill to prohibit the sale of liquor at all immigrant stations of the United States.

The other proposal, a bill to prohibit the sale of liquor in all government buildings, was introduced Senator McCumber, of North Dakota.

The first bill will go before the committee on immigration scheduled to be considered again with a strong probability of a favorable report. The McCumber bill will go to the committee on government buildings, of which Senator Fairbanks is chairman and Senator McCumber a member. Both measures will be vigorously pushed by their sponsors.

In a few days, the same bills were to be introduced in some form in the House and then the campaign for ousting liquor dives, licensed and unlicensed, from government buildings of all sorts will be well under way.

On the same day that the Senate bills were introduced, the matter of the beer dives at Ellis Island was laid before President Roosevelt and the attention of Secretary of the Treasury Shaw will also be called to the matter. Mr. Shaw is prominent in the councils of the Methodist church, and it will be interesting to know whether he will continue to stand sponsor for the sins committed by his predecessor.

Protests and petitions to Congress should be sent to Senators Penrose and McCumber. Methods might also do a good work by writing Secretary Shaw.

S. H. Hadley, superintendent of the old Jerry Macaulay Water street mission in New York, celebrated the twentieth anniversary of his conversion, Wednesday evening April 23. Twenty years ago Mr. Hadley rushed from a saloon to the police station and asked to be locked up to be kept from drinking. The next Sunday, April 28, 1882, he was converted in the Cremona Mission and since then has devoted his life to the work of rescue in the New York slums.

One Phase of the Attack of the Enemy

The passage of the law in Vermont, in 1882, requiring the teaching of the physiological effects of alcohol in the public schools, and the enactment of similar laws in other states, created a demand for graded school books adapted to these requirements.

The first set of books to meet this want, that was recognized by the friends of the movement, was the "Pathfinder Series," published in 1885, which immediately had a large sale.

This aroused the publishers of other physiologies, who gathered a few statements concerning alcohol and adding them to the back of their old high-school physiologies, forced them on the schools regardless, to meet this new demand.

Very soon other books appeared that were distorted in proportions and of inferior grades, and it became very evident that to make these laws effective, some accurate standard of authority must be fixed and maintained, by some acknowledged authority, otherwise a confusion of books and authorities would neutralize the good effects of the teaching. To avert this danger it was thought best to organize a voluntary committee of clergymen, educators and physicians, who would decide on the merits of the different books and endorse those that attained a given standard of scientific and pedagogic accuracy.

This advisory is independent of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, and has only one purpose, to promote adequate and scientific teaching in the text-books on physiology and hygiene in regard to the effects of alcohol and other narcotics.

The reputation of the members of this board gave to their endorsement a value that was quickly noticed by authors and publishers. The enactment of these laws in the forty-five states of the Union, created a large demand for text-books, and when some interested parties attempted to underestimate their value, they were met by a storm of ridicule and overwhelmed with duision. That these works were of extra value is attested by the fact that among the authors are such writers as the late Dr. H. Newell Martin, F. R. S., Prof. of Biology in John Hopkins University; Dr. Winfield S. Hall, a graduate of Leipzig, and Prof. of Physiology in Northwestern University Medical School; Dr. Henry F. Hewes, Instructor in Physiological Chemistry, Harvard Medical School, Cambridge, Mass., and other competent writers and teachers.

For men with only an average business education to characterize all these books as inaccurate is to assume a superiority of knowledge above the authors who are scientific specialists, that is at least very startling, but the law well sustained and the books kept at a high standard, no matter how strong the opposition. The recognition of these facts constantly attracting the active co-operation of an increasing number of earnest men and women.

WOMEN'S Meet at Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES is preparing a glorious welcome for the General Federation of Women's Clubs, which holds its sixth biennial session during the first week of May in that city, called by Pasadena "the paradise of America." Not only have the clubwomen of California been working to make this convention the most brilliant ever held by the federation, but the business men of Los Angeles have decided to hold the annual Fiesta de las Flores, that magnificent spectacular pageant during the convention week.

HOME OF MISS JENNIE J. BURDETTE, LOS ANGELES.

So to the allurements of the convention, sufficient in itself to attract the citizens of the United States, as well as from Canada, Europe and Australia, so the state and city organizations are on their mettle to give them a reception that shall surpass in open hearted hospitality, variety and novelty of entertainment all previous efforts in this line.

This work is going forward under the direction of Mrs. Robert J. Burdette, wife of the humorist, who has shown great capacity for organization and has the situation well in hand. Mrs. Burdette is president of the California Federation and is prominently mentioned as president of the General Federation to succeed Mrs. Rebecca Douglas Lowe. Mrs. D. T. S. Denison, the vice president of the general body, is the logical candidate, but may not accept. Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker of Denver is also in the field.

Sunny Crest, Mrs. Burdette's home, is one of the finest in Los Angeles. The Spanish mission architecture is particularly pleasing to begin with, while the wealth of roses, holly and pepper trees could only appear to such profuse advantage in the land of sunshine. The house occupies an eminence in a fifteen acre flower garden.

The business session of the convention will extend over eight days, beginning Tuesday, May 1. The most important matter to come before the delegates is the color question. There is as much other semiotropical vegetation in the city as in any other place, and other object that would detract from the festive spectacle.

great diversity of opinion on this subject but it is hoped to settle it for good and all at the coming session. The program presents many features of great interest to women citizens of the United States. One of the most delightful meetings of the week will be on Thursday evening. This will be an entertainment offered by the Los Angeles clubwomen in special compliment to the biennial visitors. It will be an interpretation of the Wagner festival of Balneario, illustrated with stereopticon and musical accompaniment. Mrs. C. W. Rhodes of Chicago being the lecturer of the evening. At the educational session President Jordan of Stanford university, Mrs. E. C. Sahlin of Denver college, Milwaukee; Mrs. Ella Ross Neville of Wisconsin, and Miss M. C. Craft of San Francisco will be the speakers. Much interest is anticipated in the presentation of a plan for a central reciprocity plan for the General Federation, which will be offered by Mrs. Philip N. Moore of St. Louis, president of the Missouri State federation. Mrs. Moore, who has served with distinction on the national board and who is a college woman as well as a clubwoman of trained experience and proved ability, will be offered by Mrs. Moore's skill as an orator and her experience in club work will be an entertainment as well as instruction.

The festivities being prepared by the citizens of Los Angeles are extensive and unique. To begin with, the city will be brilliantly illuminated and gorgeously decorated. "Unity in Diversity," the General Federation's motto, will be repeated in electric lights throughout the business streets. The abundance of flowers in southern California makes possible a lavish display. The buildings that front on the retail streets of the city will be fairly covered with brilliant blossoms of all shrubs. as the various other subjects one that will especially appeal to the convention and the address of the day will be delivered by Mrs. James D. Whitmore of Denver. Mrs. Whitmore's skill as an orator and her experience in club work will be an entertainment as well as instruction.

Most of the figures will be emblematic of the General Federation, but there will also be the regulation colors of La Fiesta. These colors consist of red, white, green and gold, and the part that Los Angeles claim cannot be reproduced elsewhere in America. The vehicles, ranging in size and shape from the dogcart to the trolley and the automobile, will be so buried in blossoms and green leaves as to cover any suggestion of wood or iron work.

On the second day will be held the floral parade. This will consist of gorgeously decorated carriages and turnouts. Is Friendship Dying Out.

In social life one hears the word friend used with less and less frequency. It is "acquaintance," "caller," "member of my club," persons with whom I have business relations," or "who is on my visiting list," or "whom I met at receptions." Rarely is it the sweet old word "friend" which was wont to mean so much.

Is friendship dying out? Is the social strata of today too shallow for its growth? Or is it that men and women are too busy to cultivate it.

The call has taken the place of the visit, and leaving one's card bids fair to become the substitute for both. Instead of simple, cordial "parties" and home-gatherings we have "calls" and "receptions," and in being a crush, a crowd of individuals who come together with little congeniality of tastes, and less interest in each other. They chatter aimlessly, listen indifferently to a little music, and go away having bored each other to no end.

The insincerity and insufficiency of such intercourse are apparent to every one who has discernment and depth of feeling.

If such frivolous social methods were confined to the circle of idle and pleasure-seeking fashionables, it might not greatly matter, since this circle is comparatively small, but the large middle class are imitating and exaggerating these methods, thus losing the opportunity as well as the relish for useful and elevating friendships. Men, indeed, absorbed in money-making and sordid cares are growing cynical about friendship, and have no faith in the strong and disinterested attachments which their fathers believed in, enjoyed and inspired. Women are missing much by being too greatly occupied in keeping up with advanced theories, with clubs and with fashionable styles and observances to cultivate the affectionate intimacy, the helpful, hearty interest in each other that once gave a sweetness and a depth to social life.—Sunny South.

LESSON VI, SECOND QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, MAY 11.

Text of the Lesson, Acts xii, 1-10. Memory Verses, 2-7-Golden Text, Ps. xxxiv, 7-Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Copyright, 1902, by American Press Association.

1, 2 Now, about that time Herod the king stretched forth his hand to vex certain of the church, and he killed James, the brother of John, with the sword.

From the time that the devil, the murderer and liar (John viii, 44), put it into the heart of Cain to kill Abel he has ever shown his hatred of God and the people of God by using his worst weapon, death (Heb. ii, 14), and that even against the Son of God Himself. It was a good day for James, for he was instantly with the Lord in the enjoyment of the very far better.

3, 4 And because he set it pleased the Jews he proceeded further to take Peter also.

Being Passover time, he kept Peter in prison under the watch of four companies of soldiers, intending after that season to kill him also to still further please the Jews—some of the same Jews, no doubt, who were pleased to crucify the Lord Jesus and stone Stephen and all the while profess to be doing God service. But God, who is only living and true God, and all power is His, and He permits these things to be, and He is not discouraged, and the kingdoms of this world shall yet be the kingdom of our Lord and of His Christ (Rev. xi, 15). We can do what the church did for Peter, earnestly and unanimously cry unto God and be ready to lay down our lives for Christ.

4 Peter was sleeping between two soldiers bound with two chains.

A double guard, a strong prison, chains, gates, and, as far as human vision could see, death for Peter on the morrow, yet Peter slept, and doubtless quietly, for he was in Christ and Christ in God. The wall of fire was round about him, and with him all was well whether he remained in the mortal body or not (Col. iii, 3; Zech. ii, 5, 8; Isa. iii, 10). It is grand to see God and not circumstances nor people to see circumstances and people only through God and be still and know that He is God (Ps. xvi, 10; Rom. viii, 28, 29).

5 And, behold, the angel of the Lord came upon him, and a light shined in the prison.

Before Peter could realize it his chains were off, his sandals were on, his garment about him, and he was following the angel out of the prison, the soldiers still soundly sleeping, but Peter thought it was all a beautiful vision which God had granted him. How great and glorious is the ministry of angels who minister unto the heirs of salvation! (Heb. i, 14).

10, 11 When Peter was come to himself, he said, Now I know of a surety that the Lord hath sent his angel and hath delivered me out of the hand of Herod and from all the expectation of the people of the Jews.

On they went past the first watch and the second, and the iron gate opened of its own accord—perhaps other angels swung it open at the approach of the angel followed by Peter—and still on they went through one street, well away from the prison, before the angel left Peter. Then, being left alone and finding himself in the night out on a street of the city, he began to realize that it was no dream, but that he was actually a free man by the mighty power of an angel of God.

12 He came to the house of Mary, the mother of John, whose surname was Mark, where many were gathered together praying.

This he did as soon as, having come to himself, he considered the matter. He knew just where to go, for on a previous occasion when he and John had been released from prison and from the power of the rulers, it is written that "being let go they went to their own company" (Acts iv, 23).

13, 14 Thus are men made, it is his angel.

What strange words from a company of praying believers when they are told that their prayers are answered and Peter is at the door knocking for admission. Rhoda was so glad that she forgot to open the door for him, and they were so amazed that they could not believe her. We might not wonder to have the world count the believer mad (Isa. lix, 15, margin; Hos. ix, 7; John x, 20), but for believers, and such as these, to count each other mad is more strange. May we not be so slow to get upon Jer. xxxiii, 3, or to live in Ps. lxxi, 5.

16, 17 Go show these things unto James and to the brethren.

Peter continued knocking, the only thing he could do, for doors did not open to him as prison gates to the angel, and in due time they opened to him and were astonished to see him. He, quieting them, told them all that the Lord had done for him and bade them tell James and the others. This is the James of chapter xv, 13, who seems to have been president of the council at Jerusalem, James the brother of John having been slain (verse 2). Every redeemed soul has been delivered from prison and death far worse than any Herod could afflict with, and how glad we should tell of the deliverance God has wrought for us (Ps. xl, 1-3), but how few seem glad to tell it to His story that He may be magnified.

18, 19 Herod's soldiers put to death, and Herod himself dying such an awful death (verse 23), while Peter was delivered from their hands, reminds us of that morning when Daniel came forth from the den of lions, but his enemies were put into the same den never to come forth. It makes us think of the glorious morning of our Lord's appearing (Ps. xlii, 14; xxx, 5; xli, 5, margin; cxxx, 6, etc.) for the deliverance of His people and of the unbelievers for whom there shall be no morning, but only the outer darkness forever (Isa. viii, 20, R. V.).

The duel is the dark with duellists. Two men were locked in a dark room and crawled stealthily from corner to corner, until some false step made one of them the target for bullet or blade.

Life is a duel in the dark with duellists. One false step, one mistake, and the attack comes swift and sudden. The mistake which commonly opens the way for an attack by disease is neglect of the symptoms of stomach trouble. When eating is followed by undue fullness, belchings, sour or bitter risings, etc., disease is attacking the stomach.

The best way to frustrate such an attack is to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, and makes the body strong and healthy.

"I was suffering very much with my head and stomach," writes Mrs. W. C. Gill, of Weldon, Shelby Co., Ala. "I had no sleep when I would rise up in bed would fall right back, could eat but very little, in fact scarcely anything, there seemed to be a heavy weight in my stomach and I could not rest. I took four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and now I feel like a new woman and give Dr. Pierce's medicine credit for it all. I had taken medicine from physicians without any benefit as I could see."

The Interpretation of Children's Songs.

In the May number of Truth, the Woman's Forum, Katherine Crawford has a charming analysis of the changes in children's music during the last decade.

"It is hardly possible," says Miss Crawford, "in the limitations of an article to give other than the most general suggestions in this study of Song Analysis for Children. Of the unwritten laws, the most important is the one least regarded; the singing of the songs should be as simple and natural, in phrasing and inflection, as in the telling of their stories to the child. Avoid rigid adherence to the time-mark as such, except in songs requiring a regular recurrence of the musical beat. The piling of words and wooden eyebeams generally go together. Sometimes a little song passes successfully through the verbal analysis to meet its death on the piano. In this latter the Kindergarten possesses a valuable aid—camp if through 'singing fingers' it is to the child a sentient being and not an instrument of percussion. There is a floating quality in children's voices which needs the anchorage of a firm, clean-cut touch on the piano."

"In the Spring song, where old age is happily disguised, there is a call for certain delicacy of treatment. It is easy to exchange the modest dandelion for a strenuous sunflower. 'The first years of a child's life are filled with the struggle of the child's soul to grow into consciousness. Song is his natural language by which he will come into touch with the life around him. Can there be a greater privilege than to translate into the notes of these little songs all the slumbering thoughts and feelings of the child soul which through such interpretation is being guided into light?'"

An Evening With Flowers.

The Epworth League of the M. E. Church, South, met Monday night in its usual monthly literary meetings with Misses Crenshaw, the subject being "An Evening With Flowers." Each one present represented some flower, and the others guessed what flower it was. After the guessing contest "A Flower Romance" was indulged in and 'twas both interesting and entertaining to hear the results read. The evening was an occasion of great pleasure to all present, and the chairman of that department, Mrs. Y. Q. Walker, is to be congratulated for her skill in arranging and zeal for executing the programs at these monthly meetings.

After the exercises were over cream and cake were served by the hostesses, which was also very much appreciated. The evening will long be remembered by all present as one of the most pleasant events ever participated in. Thanks to the chairman and hostesses for the pleasant affair. You had better join the League and share the pleasure of these meetings as well as the profit accruing from them and the devotional meetings every Sunday evening. A MEMBER.

ACTRESS MAY BE DUCHESS.

English Singer becomes Bride of Duke of Devonshire's Heir.

Miss Isabel Jay, the charming English songstress, has a good chance of some day becoming a Duchess. She has just become the bride of Mr. Harry Sheppard Hart Cavendish, nephew of the Duke of Devonshire, who is old and childless.

Mrs. Cavendish has been on the stage three years. She has been one of the most popular singers at the Savoy the ater, London, and has several times won favors from royalty. She has just closed a successful engagement as Phyllis in "Iolanthe."

Mr. Harry Cavendish, who is but twenty-six, has already won a reputation as an explorer and hunter of big game. He has made several expeditions to Africa and has visited America in search of big game. Mr. Cavendish at one time showed marked attention to Edna May, an American actress. One night the young explorer sat in a proscenium box and blissfully gazed at his innamorata while the fair Edna played to that box with all her power. Presently a huge bunch of gorgeous roses, American Beauties, were dropped on the stage at her feet. They came from the hands of Mr. Cavendish.

That was probably the most expensive bunch of roses that was ever presented to any one on the stage, for, not counting the roses, which were worth a dollar each, there was a cluster cunningly concealed among the blossoms that cost Mr. Cavendish not less than $2,500.

But that was a mere bagatelle compared with other gifts bestowed upon Miss May by Mr. Cavendish.

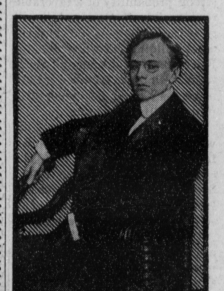

AUTHOR AND SOLDIER.

Descendant of "Old Put" Writes Novel, With Scene Laid in Philippines.

Mr. Israel Putnam, the author of "Daniel Everton, Volunteer-Regular," is a resident of Saratoga Springs, N. Y. He is a great-grandson of Gideon Putnam, who founded that village, and a collateral kinsman of the famous Revolutionary general whose name he bears. He is a son of the late Justice John R. Putnam of the New York supreme court.

Mr. Putnam has spent many years in travel and is familiar with the far east. At the outbreak of hostilities in the Philippines, two years ago, he found himself in Manila and was a witness of the events which took place in and about that city at the time when it was held virtually in a state of siege by the Filipinos. Later on, when the aggressive operations on the part of our forces were begun, he accompanied several of the expeditions into the interior. At this time he was commissioned a second lieutenant and assigned to the Fourteenth Infantry.

After serving with that regiment south of Manila for about two months Mr. Putnam was transferred to the Sixth Infantry and went to the island of Negros, where he remained for over a year. It was during his service on this island that he gathered the material for "Daniel Everton." His duties brought him into contact with the opulent sugar planters as well as with the Filipinos, and the types of native character which he has presented in his novel have at this time a strong claim upon national interest.

On his return to the United States, eighteen months ago, Mr. Putnam resigned from the army, but he did not relinquish his keen interest in the Filipino race. He is giving evidence of this by returning to the islands as editor in chief of the Manila Callers, a daily paper about to be established there by the Manila Publishing company.
